Virginia Is National Leader In Tree Planting

Early reports indicate that Virginia's private woodland owners are once again among the leaders in the Nation in forest tree planting for the 1976-77 planting season. Furthermore, the Virginia Division of Forestry tree nurseries produced a record number of seedlings which were sold to Virginia landowners. All Virginians can and should share in this accomplishment said State Forester Wallace F. Custard.

Virginia's total reforested acres on non-government land exceeded 93,532 acres during the winter and spring planting season of 1976-77 Although this is a little shy of the targeted one hundred thousand acres hoped for, Custard explained that the economy and the weather are partially responsible for the shortage. It is important to note that Virginia's small private landowners (the large forest industries not included) lead the nation in tree planting. The nearest competitor was Mississippi with 41,755 acres planted vs. Virginia's 53,353 acres planted on non-government - non - industry lands.

The Virginia Division of Forestry tree nurseries located in Augusta and New Kent Counties produced 28 different species of tree seedlings for Virginia landowners. The 1976-77 production exceeded 50 million trees with the major species being loblolly pine. Virginia's two state nurseries ranked fifth in the nation in forest tree seedling production.

"Virginians should be proud of their reforestation efforts. It takes many years to grow trees to usable size, therefore it is essential that we plant trees at an ever increasing rate to meet the demands of the population predicted by the year 2,000," said Custard.

There are more than 68,000 wage earners directly dependent on the forest industry which is dependent on the raw material supplied by our forests. The citizens of the state and nation demand the products of the industry. This means that we must continue a strong reforestation program and encourage wise management on all 16 million acres of Virginia's wooded areas.

Virginia can and must retain her leadership position because of economics and the many other forest resource-related values, concluded Custard.

Scout Fund Drive Ends

The Appomattox County Drive striving to raised $2200.00 to support the Blue Ridge Mountains Council Scouting Program ended just short of the goal. Lloyd Walton, chairman of the drive is dicated that $2045.15 was raised or 93% of the goal. Tom Morgan, the Central District Executive for the Scouts stated that he was very encouraged by this year's campaign. The organization that the Appomattox Lions Club put together under Lloyd Walton and Watt Abbitt's leadership was the best we've had to date. All the money was raised in a 5-week period. Each year we raise more money in a shorter time . Next year, I'm sure we'll be able to raise the $150.00 more we need to meet the goal in the same 5 or 6 week period! The support the Blue Ridge Mountains Council can provide for the boys and leaders in scouting in Appomattox County is a direct result of the efforts of the members of the Appomattox Lions Club. Thanks Lions!! Those who would like to review the "Wonderful World of Scouting" in action are invited to attend the Blue Ridge Mountains Council Scout Show at Wakefield House on the Lynchburg College campus, May 6, from 11 to 4 p.m. Admission is $1.00; Tickets can be purchased from any scout or at the door!

VA Questions And Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q - I used my home loan eligibility shortly after World War II and recently sold that home. Can I use my VA loan guaranty again to buy another home now?

A - If your previous loan has been paid in full, you are eligible for another VA loan guaranty.

Q - Is there any kind of VA education or training available for veterans who have serious service-connected disabilities and whose termination dates have passed?

A - Congress has eliminated termination dates under the VA vocational rehabilitation program for veterans with serious service-connected disability who need education or training to obtain suitable work. Under the VA vocational rehabilitation program, the VA pays for tuition and other training costs, and the veteran receives a monthly living allowance during training.

UNDERSTANDING DRUG ABUSE

a health column from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

Smoking: "An Addictive Disorder"

"Two-thirds of the people in our Nation who have ever smoked cigarettes are now addicted to a daily cigarette intake. That is a much higher intake than that which exists among heroin, barbiturate, or any other drug users."

So states Dr. Robert DuPont, Director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, who reports that recent Federal studies on tobacco use have turned up alarming indifference on the part of American smokers to the dangers of smoking.

DuPont is dismayed that the same aversion which many people have toward drug habits does not arise over equally harmful tobacco habits. And he is particularly concerned that young people who may start smoking do not realize that cigarette smoking can be habit forming.

For this reason, DuPont wants the American public to start thinking of tobacco use as "an addictive disorder."

In the same vein, Joseph Califano, Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, has announced a new Federal anti-smoking campaign which he hopes will be "the most vigorous and hard-hitting program against smoking that this country has ever had."

Califano, who kicked a three-pack-a-day smoking habit two years ago at the insistence of his son, flatly states that "smoking kills people." He refers to smoking, alcohol excess, obesity, and accidents as "the Four Horsemen of Death" and points to a recent study which claims that there are 90,000 deaths from smoking-related lung cancer each year.

Califano anticipates a campaign that will focus on discouraging teenagers, particularly young women, from smoking. And he plans to include TV and radio warnings and antismoking restrictions in Federal buildings in the Government's efforts to curtail tobacco use.

One of the calamities you can do something about tornadoes, hurricanes, earthquakes, forest fires. Its simple . . . be extra careful with fire of any kind!
